Miami-Dade	Florida Grand Opera, Inc.	To support the presentation and correlating outreach programs for "The Passenger" by composer Mieczyslaw Weinberg. Based on the novel by Auschwitz survivor Zofia Posmysz, the opera was the response of a Jewish composer to the persecution he suffered during the Nazi invasion of Poland, during Stalin's regime in Russia, and from the murder of his parents and sister during the Holocaust. Completed in 1968 and lost for nearly 40 years, the opera finally premiered in 2010 in Bregenz, Austria, to packed houses. The opera is set in the 1950s on an ocean liner en route from Germany to Brazil, and it tells the story of the unexpected re-encounter between a former Schutzstaffel-Helferin (SS-Helferin) camp warden and a prisoner at Auschwitz. Performances will be accompanied by a series of lectures on topics such as anti-Semitism and hatred and their impact on society.	2015	$20,000	25
Miami-Dade	Florida International University	To support an exhibition on modern Dutch design, including a publication. The exhibition will include furniture, ceramics, textiles, and other media from the museum's collection of modern Dutch design, along with additional loans, for the first time in the U.S. The project will be accompanied by a publication and a number of educational programs, including lectures and a film series. The exhibition will explore how modern Dutch design evolved from 1890 to 1940, investigating three intersecting themes related to design and social practice; the impact of international commerce and travel; and how this period of Dutch creativity influences today's design.	2015	$30,000	26

Sarasota	Sarasota Ballet of Florida, Inc.	To support the presentation of ballets by Sir Frederick Ashton. The ballets include "Valse nobles et sentimentales," "Apparitions," "Tweedledum and Tweedledee," and "The Walk to the Paradise Gardens." The works are all new to the company's repertoire and the company will build or buy sets and costumes for these masterpieces. As a way to maintain fiscal sustainability, the sets and costumes will be inventoried for lease to other ballet companies around the world.	2016	$25,000	16
Sarasota	Sarasota Opera Association, Inc.	To support a production of "Dialogues des Carmelites" ("The Dialogues of the Carmelites") by composer Francois Poulenc. The work will launch the inaugural year of Sarasota Firsts, an initiative to present operas never before produced on the company's stage. Based on the play by Georges Bernanos, the opera was inspired by actual events and portrays faith put to the ultimate test when an order of Carmelite nuns refuses to renounce their beliefs during the French Revolution. The creative team will include conductor David Neely and stage director Martha Collins.	2016	$20,000	16
Volusia	Atlantic Center for the Arts, Inc.	To support artist residencies and related activities. Interdisciplinary residencies will provide mid-career and emerging artists a chance to work with master artists. The master artists will determine the focus of the residency session and set the criteria for the competitive application process for their potential resident artists. In addition, the center will support a summer creative writing residency for teens with mentorship from veteran writers of varied genres.	2016	$25,000	6

Columbia	Bradbury, Steven	To support the translation from the Chinese of "Poems, Sixty of Them" by Taiwanese writer Hsia Yu. A noted poet, songwriter, book designer, and magazine editor, Hsia Yu (b. 1956) is one of the most innovative and popular poets of the Chinese-speaking world and the first Chinese-language poet of the postwar era to write candidly about sex and gender politics. She is the author of seven volumes of poetry, most recently, First Person (Taipei, 2016), a book-length bilingual poem designed as a photo album. Many of the poems in this collection, which were bound in silver scratch-off latex, reflect her fascination with the discourse and composition of social media and its impact on love, language, and intimacy. Published in 2011 with poems written over a ten-year period, "Poems, Sixty of Them" cover subjects as varied as translation and transformation, terrorism and texting. Throughout the collection and reflective of the internet age, words, phrases and even whole passages are reused and repurposed, giving the book a fugue-like feel.	2017	$12,500	0
Duval	Cathedral Arts Project Inc	To support a multidisciplinary arts education program for at-risk youth, in collaboration with PACE Center for Girls. With additional assistance from VSA Florida and the Florida Department of Juvenile Justice, the program will provide instruction, creation, and exhibition opportunities for youth participants; develop evaluation procedures that will assess the impact of arts learning on juvenile crime prevention; and explore new models for arts education for at-risk youth. Teaching artists will offer lessons in the visual arts, music, theater, and writing, with an emphasis on perseverance, teamwork, communication, problem-solving, critical thinking, and self-discipline.	2017	$22,500	5

Duval	DeEtte Holden Cummer Museum Foundation, Inc.	To support the traveling exhibition, "Augusta Savage: Artist-Community-Activist" and accompanying catalogue. The exhibition will explore the legacy of African-American sculptor, Augusta Savage (1892-1962), a Jacksonville native and leader in the Harlem Renaissance. Drawing from the museum's collection and other institutions, the exhibition will include works by Savage and those she influenced and interacted with such as Romare Bearden (1911-88), Jacob Lawrence (1917-2000), Gwendolyn Knight (1913-2005), Norman Lewis (1901-79) and Robert Blackburn (1920-2003). A catalogue will be produced and it is anticipated that the exhibition will travel to several other venues.	2017	$10,000	4
Duval	Museum of Contemporary Art Jacksonville Inc.	To support the Project Atrium series. Featured artists for the series include Gabriel Dawe, Juan Fontanive, and Anila Quayyum Agha. The unique dimensions and scale of the Atrium Gallery will challenge the artists, a call to reinvention and active collaboration with the architecture of the museum on a monumental scale. Artists will install their artworks in view of the public, revealing what is usually a behind-the-scenes process to visitors. Each exhibition introduces contemporary artists from around the globe to the greater Jacksonville region and fosters the growth of artists and audiences through a series of compelling exchanges.	2017	$30,000	5

Escambia	Pensacola Opera, Inc.	To support the regional premiere of "Dead Man Walking" by composer Jake Heggie and librettist Terrence McNally. Based on the nonfiction book by Sister Helen Prejean and the 1995 film of the same name, the opera is set in 1980s Louisiana, and follows the relationship between a condemned killer on death row (Joseph De Rocher) and the nun (Sister Helen) who supports him in his final days. The story explores the death penalty and the complexity of forgiveness. Sister Helen Prejean and the composer will participate in community events at the University of West Florida and at Pensacola State College. The Pensacola Museum of Art and Artel Gallery will exhibit collections of art curated from the works of convicts and death row inmates. Town Hall meetings will be scheduled before the performances and may include members of law enforcement, legal community, religious community, and social services organizations. Artists-in-residence will perform excerpts from the opera at places such as libraries, community centers, and military bases.	2017	$15,000	1

Miami-Dade	M Ensemble Company, Inc.	To support a production of "Flyin' West" by Pearl Cleage. A small group of African-American women's lives are changed when the American West was opened up in 1862 for people willing to settle in a harsh and untested region. Cleage seeks to inform audiences about the Homestead Act that enabled people from all races and genders to own land and to use that land to support themselves, or to develop it and sell it for a profit. The themes of determination, racism, feminism, and pride are reflected in the play's four women and two men who leave the South to find freedom.	2017	$10,000	0
Miami-Dade	Miami City Ballet, Inc.	To support the creation and presentation of the "The Fairy's Kiss" by choreographer Alexei Ratmansky. Former artistic director of the Bolshoi Ballet and current Artist-in-Residence at American Ballet Theatre, Ratmansky will set the ballet to Igor Stravinsky's score of the same name. The ballet will feature a large cast of 20 to 30 dancers, and original costume and set design that will breathe new life into a classical ballet that links literature, music, and design to dance. Accompanied by a live orchestra, the work will premiere at three performing arts centers in South Florida: the Adrienne Arsht Center in Miami, Broward Center in Fort Lauderdale, and Kravis Center in West Palm Beach.	2017	$60,000	27
Miami-Dade	Miami Dade College	To support MDC Live Arts' Ojala: Wishes from the Muslim World. Miami-Dade	Wilson, William	To support the translation from the Japanese of "The Pagoda of Grasses and Trees," a poetry book by Taneda Santoka. Santoka (1882-1940) was a preeminent haiku poet and diarist of early 20th-century Japan. He was the central figure of the "free haiku" movement, so called because its practitioners felt the focal significance of the poem is more important than the traditional five-seven-five syllable format and seasonal words of classical haiku. Santoka's work reflects upon his peripatetic life, his relationship with nature, Buddhism, and the minutia that comprises the human experience. Although his collected works fill 11 volumes, the 900 verses in "The Pagoda of Grasses and Trees" are considered the most representative of his poetry, with no English translation of this volume in existence. The poems will be supplemented with a translation of his diary from the last three months of his life.	2018	$12,500	0

Orange	Orlando Museum of Art	To support an exhibition of work by contemporary artist Nick Cave. The exhibition will showcase a cross-section of Nick Cave's (b. 1959) multimedia artworks created over the course of his 20-plus year career. Cave's artwork, a combination of sculpture, dance, and fashion, reflects his experience as a trained visual artist who studied with the Alvin Ailey School of Dance and is now head of the Master of Design in Fashion, Body, and Garment at the School of Art Institute of Chicago. Best known for his elaborate "soundsuits," human-shaped, wearable sculptural forms composed of a wide variety of repurposed commonplace materials, Cave's "soundsuits" present a visually dynamic experience that is accessible to audiences of all ages and socio-economic backgrounds. The exhibition also will include densely assembled, wall-mounted sculptures dripping with ceramic birds, metal flowers, beads, crystals and even an antique gramophone. Local artists will engage community members in the creative process, using found materials to create artworks in the same spirit as the artist.	2018	$20,000	7
